Austin Contract Extended

By Robert E. Finneran
Editor

Town Manager J. Maynard Austin has received a two year extension of his contract by the selectmen, who announced their decision Monday night.

Also, the board announced that an evaluation process would be set up for reviewing the manager's performance and also some effort may be made to remove the term of the manager from the charter.

Austin, thus becomes the only Andover administrator since the inception of the charter in 1958 to continue in office in what now amounts to two full terms.

Under terms of Andover's charter, a manager is appointed for a five year term.

When the former board of selectmen renewed Austin's contract three years ago, it was for a three year term. Legal authorities at the time interpreted the provision to mean that an administrator could not be hired for more than five years but could be retained for less.

In January of this year, the board by a four-one vote voted not to renew the contract when it expired in August. Subsequently, three members of that board have left, either through elective process, (Janet Lake), decision not to seek re-election (Milton Greenberg) or resigna-

February Vacation Week Cut From School Calendar

Ruth E. Westcott

School Nurse Retiring

Miss Ruth Westcott, head nurse at Andover High and a nurse in the system for 33 years, will retire at the end of school in June. As the school committee accepted her retirement Tuesday night, they heard Supt. Kenneth R. Seifert praise her service "above and beyond the call of duty" over the years.

Seifert said Miss Westcott's work has extended far beyond the "Florence Nightengale" image of a nurse who checks temperature and measures height and weight.

"She has taken a very, very comprehensive role," he said, including being "a leader of the nurses."

During the early late 60's and early 70's, he said Miss Westcott gave considerable time to teenagers with mental and physical problems, volunteering her services on weekends and evenings in addition to her regular work.

"We wish her," Seifert said, "good health."

The school committee Tuesday night also approved the retirement of Wilfred Laroche, junior custodian at Andover High who has been with the system since April, 1968.

The school committee voted Tuesday night to shorten next year's February vacation to a two-day "winter recess."

Barring an unusually snowy winter, however, school will get out earlier in June.

The traditional one-week break will become a four-day weekend, with pupils having off Monday and Tuesday, Feb. 20 and 21, and returning to school on Wednesday the 22nd for the remainder of the week.

The committee also cut one of the two teacher preparation days at both the beginning and end of school, but added two "in service" days during the middle of the year.

The traditional 180-school day year will be reinstated with school beginning Wednesday, Sept. 7. If the four-built-in snow days are used, school will let out Tuesday, June 20. Closing will be set back one day for each of the four not used. (Because of the large number of snow days this year, the committee had opted to abide by the lesser hourly requirement set by the state, and avoid going to school until the last week in June.)

In making his calendar recommendations, Supt. Kenneth R. Seifert said that sentiment this year was toward finishing school sooner.

As for the winter break, he said the chances are pretty good of having snow days in January and February to interrupt the "long haul" between Christmas and April. Historically, he said, there have been days off because of bad weather.

The committee also accepted the superintendent's proposal for "released time" or "in-service days" for teachers on Feb. 1 and March 8, 1978, providing the teachers present appropriate plans for use of those days to the committee at its first meeting in January.

Seifert said the released time days would not come out of "student days," but out of the four days the faculty normally has at the beginning and end of school.

The teachers will report for duty Tuesday, Sept. 6, only one day ahead of the students instead of two, and will stay only one day in June, through Wednesday the 21st.

Committee Chairman David Ahouse questioned whether one day would be enough for teacher start-up in the fall.

By Linda S. Corbett

"It wouldn't have recommended it if I didn't feel it was sufficient," Seifert replied. He said that grouping and class assignments can be taken care of well in advance of the first day of school.

Ahouse also expressed concern that the in-service time be used on appropriate subjects. At one time in Andover's past, he said, released time was abused and came close to simply being "a day off."

Seifert agreed to "a valid request" that teacher plans for their released time be submitted to the committee well in advance.

Director Leaving

Recreation Community School Director Gary Ralph has submitted his resignation, effective May 27.

Ralph, who was hired five years ago to initiate and direct the recreation community school concept for Andover, will be pursuing business interests in Maine, he said in his letter of resignation submitted to Town Manager J. Maynard Austin.

Austin, who expressed regret at losing Ralph, said a special committee will be named to find a successor and also to evaluate the program as it now exists.

The manager explained that the program had been in operation now for five years and it

Bicentennial Commission Has Windup Projects

Andover's lauded Bicentennial Commission has a few projects left on the agenda before officially winding up its dues, but will still provide the town with a surplus of funds.

Mrs. Norma Gammon, chairman of the commission, appeared before the selectmen Monday night to present the molds from which the Bicentennial Medallions were struck and present a nearly final report on the commission's activities spanning the past two years.

Mrs. Gammon noted that the commission was provided $17,000 with which to conduct the town's commemorative program by the 1975 town meeting. After reciting the numerous activities of the Bicentennial year, the chairman noted that there is approximately $5,671 to be returned to the town.

She further said the commission was interested in some final projects and asked the selectmen's permission to proceed, adding that if approved, the town would still be the beneficiary of in excess of $3,000.

Final projects include illumination of the flag at Memorial Hall library and in front of the town house, lighting of the memorial plaque at the triangle at Central and School streets, restoration of a painting at the library and installation of a plaque at the location of the powder mill.

Illumination of the flags at the library and town house got a further boost from the selectmen when it was suggested that the flag pole itself be relocated back to its original position on the building itself.

Selectman Richard J. Bowen noted that the pole was originally on the building, at one time from the side of the hall, and later from the portico. He suggested that it would be nice to have the flag again waving from a pole on the portico and Mrs. Gammon agreed to look into this possibility.

Illumination of the bronze plaque to be placed on the boulder at the memorial triangle will complete this project. Mrs. Gammon explained that the Andover Garden club will be planting the area and the militia installing a flag pole there soon and that official dedication ceremonies will take place either May 29 or July 3, depending on completion of all the work.

She said that the garden club had originally intended to do the plantings over an extended period but has now decided to place the shrubs and flowers in totally this year.

The club members will be working with the town public works department in the beautification project.

The original molds for the medallion were presented to the town for display in the library for the present.

Ultimate location of the molds which have been placed in a case, will be decided later.

The chairman suggested that after being placed on view at the library, town house Phillips Academy and other locations, the case be presented to the Andover Historical Society which had agreed to safeguard them and provide them for own use whenever desired.

Selectman Bowen suggested that it might be possible to display them in the town house on a permanent basis, such as the charter now on display in the case near the town clerk's office.

Bowen said he would like to arrange to have the molds seen and exhibited as widely as possible but then placed permanently in the town hall, stating, "as a town treasure, they should be town property and properly displayed."

Mrs. Gammon agreed to look into this further.

She also presented to the selectmen the book, Andover In The American Revolution, written by Col. Edward M. Harris, now a selectman, and suitably inscribed.

The Bicentennial Quilt, is now on display at the library and will be given to the Andover Historical Society for proper storage and will be available for display at the town's discretion.

All Bicentennial reports and material have been presented for storage in the town vault, the chairman advised the board.

Cherry Sheet Studies Coming Up

A joint meeting of the Selectmen, Finance Committee and School Committee, to discuss how the town got in its adverse cherry sheet condition, and how a repeat can be prevented in the future, has been scheduled for Saturday, May 7, in Town Hall.

FinCom member Robert Zollner had proposed the session and his suggestion was agreed to by all three boards.

Meanwhile, business manager Robert Maguire reported Tuesday night that the Department of Education has agreed to submit amended returns to some systems by Monday, and he felt that would mean an increase of about $300,000 in Andover's pockets this year.

There's a very good possibility that they may adjust the initial 1976-77 payment to Andover up from $610,000 to $900,000, he said.

That is still more than $1 million less than the town had originally anticipated, however.

Maguire said there is also growing sentiment in the state legislature to issue revised cherry sheets. "Things are at least going in the right direction," he said.

Measles Clinics Scheduled

Measles clinics in the Andover Schools conducted by the Andover Board of Health in cooperation with the Andover School Department will be held for Andover students Monday, May 2, from 8 a.m. to 9 a.m. in the East and West Jr. High Schools.

Tuesday, May 3, from 7:55 a.m. to 9 a.m. in the Andover High School.

Thursday, May 12, from 9 a.m. to 10 a.m. in the West Elementary, Shawsheen and Bancroft Schools.

Friday, May 13, from 9 a.m. to 10 a.m. in the Sanborn, Doherty and South Schools.

Measles Clinics conducted by the Andover Board of Health will be held at St. Augustine's School, May 2, Monday at 12:45 p.m. and at the Pike School, Thursday, May 12, at 10:30 a.m.

Parent consent slips must be returned to the school before inoculations may be given.

Holt Hill Reservoir On Line

The new three million gallon water storage tank on Holt Hill was completed recently with the final concrete work around the reservoir itself getting the finishing touches from the contractor.

The reservoir is now on line and in operation.

There is still some finish grading and incidental work before completion of the area around the tank and also finish road work to the tank which will be done during the summer.

Junk Car Program Underway

Selectmen Monday night gave their endorsement to the annual junk car program currently underway under the direction of the building inspector.

Each year, in the spring, the town is surveyed for junk cars on property throughout the town and the building inspector follows up with a letter informing residents of the bylaw with regard to unregistered vehicles on private property.

Residents are given a period of time to comply with the law before court action is taken.

Study Group Applications Due Friday

Tomorrow is the final day for parents who would like to serve on a committee to study the declining school enrollments and school facilities, including possible closing of some schools, to express their interest to the central school office.

Committeemen Joseph

Finn and Casimir Kolaski will begin screening applicants next week, and narrow the field to one parent and one substitute from each school.

Also on the committee will be a representative

Such items will be picked up by calling Lewis at 475-5864.

Pizzano License Request Tabled

A request for a transfer of a full retail package goods store license for Philip G. Pizzano, owner of Plaza West Beverages, was tabled by the selectmen for one week, to check on policy in such matters.

Pizzano, unsuccessful applicant for a full package goods store license two years ago, agreed that a week's wait would be all right, after Selectman Richard J. Bowen said he felt the granting of the license was a departure from past practice.

The applicant now has a license to sell beer and wine only.

Bowen said he thought there was a practice of advertising the availability of package store licenses.

Both Town Manager J. Maynard Austin and Town Clerk Elden R. Salter said that licenses were advertised when they were provided by a new one being available through an increase in population.

The particular license is unusual, in that it is available through the decision of Franz Liquors to close some months ago.

Bowen said he had no problem with the applicant, nor was his questioning of the policy a reflection on Mr. Pizzano, but that there should be a policy on such matters, whether availability of a license should be advertised to the general public or not.

Selectman Edward M. Harris moved that Pizzano be granted the license, but did not receive a second.

Pizzano was asked if a delay would cause him any hardship and he replied that he has been attempting to eke out a living for 12 years and the longer it goes on I'll be out of money. He was agreeable to a week's delay however and the board, with only Harris opposed, so voted.

Spinning Bee Part Of Annual Event

The Merrimack Valley Textile Museum in North Andover is looking for the best hand spinners in the state. The Bay State Spinning Competition will begin at 1:30 p.m., Sunday, May 15, on the Common across from the Museum at 800 Massachusetts Ave.

The spinning bee is one of the activities planned for the Sixth Annual Sheep-Shearing Day. Members of the 4-H Golden Fleece Club of Topsfield will shear one sheep each hour from 1 to 5 p.m. In addition, there will be demonstrations of wool sorting and natural dyeing, and a sale of quality handspun and handwoven goods. Traditional bluegrass music will accompany the colorful display of craft activities and products on the Common in the Old Center of North Andover.

Spinners, including novices, are welcome to join the festivities. Participants representing their communities may enter the competition with either a Saxony or a Walking ("Wool" or "Great") Wheel. Each spinner must provide his/her own wheel and wool. Participants must use carded wool, not wool top. Winding devices will be provided by the Museum, as well as folding chairs for those using Saxony Wheels. Interested spinners should contact the assistant curator of education at the Merrimack Valley Textile Museum or they may register for the competition at 1 p.m. on May 15.

Among the prizes to be awarded is a twenty-five pound ball of wool top, donated by the Wool Bureau, Inc. Winners in each category will be judged upon the greatest length of woolen yarn spun in an hour's time.

Ride-A-Bike Campaign Underway

The Andover Education Association, local coordinators of the sixth "Ride-A-Bike for the Retarded," to be held on Sunday, May 1 in Andover has announced the beginning of their campaign to recruit riders for the upcoming event. Selected as chairman for the event was Betty Ann Coyle, vice president of the AEA and teacher at Shawsheen School.

The statewide ride is held annually to benefit all mentally retarded citizens in Massachusetts through the work of the Massachusetts Association for Retarded Citizens and its local affiliates.

Individuals of all ages are welcome to participate either by riding, sponsoring a rider or helping man checkpoints on the day of the ride.

The official route in Andover will cover 12 miles beginning at West Elementary School and ending at the same place, although each rider may choose the number of miles he or she will cover.

Riders solicit sponsors from within the community who pledge the cyclists a predetermined amount of money per mile. After the ride, the contributions are collected by the participants from their sponsors.

Interested riders may obtain forms at all Andover schools or by contacting Betty Coyle at Shawsheen School.

Gillette Sales, Earnings Higher

Sales and earnings of The Gillette Company rose in the first quarter of 1977 compared with the corresponding period of 1976, Colman M. Mockler, Jr., chairman and chief executive officer, told the annual meeting of shareholders at Andover last Thursday.

Sales for the three months ended March 31, were $387,463,000, an increase of 7 per cent from the $361,020,000 in 1976. Pretax income was $48,389,000, compared with $45,908,000 a year earlier, a gain of 5 per cent. Consolidated net income of $25,071,000 rose 5 per cent from $23,872,000 in 1976.

Earnings per share of $.83 compared with $.79 the prior year. First quarter earnings are not necessarily indicative of full year results.

Mockler said that sales and earnings of Gillette North America were virtually unchanged from the first quarter of 1976. Gillette International's sales were above those of the prior year but earnings were slightly below. Sales and earnings of the Braun group were sharply higher than those of the first three months of 1976. The new Micron shaver, recently introduced by Braun, was a strong performer both in Germany and international markets.

Total borrowings were level with last year but net interest costs rose as a result of relatively higher debt in weaker currency countries where interest rates tend to be higher. Exchange losses in the quarter were lower than the same period last year.

"At last year's annual meeting," Mockler said, "it was pointed out that economic and special problems could contribute to a continuing period of weakness in certain major foreign currencies in relation to the United States dollar during the balance of 1976. Events subsequently proved these concerns to be well founded. In addition, the economic recovery in the United States went through what has been described as an unexpected pause for part of the year."

Mockler added, "I wish I could say that there was no possibility that these conditions could affect the remainder of 1977. Situations such as energy policy, inflation and various special problems, both in the United States and abroad, require actions that might dampen real economic growth, at least in the short run, and cause weakness in certain foreign currencies and adversely affect consumer confidence. I am confident that the company's financial strength and strong market position will help us to meet the challenges from these external conditions."

At its meeting today, the board of directors of the Gillette company declared the regular quarterly dividend of $.375 per share payable June 3, $977 to stockholders of record May 2, 1977.

Malden Mills Receives Clean Air Award

Malden Mills of Lawrence received a 1977 Clean Air Award Monday during an Earth Day happening at Faneuil Hall, Boston.

The award was presented by Mrs. Sylvia Mansfield, president of the American Lung Association of Essex County and Gov. Michael Dukakis, for outstanding efforts to control air contamination.

Representing Malden Mills at the ceremony were Plant Engineer Maxwell Ball of North Andover, technical director Joel M. Grossman, also of North Andover, and environmental engineer J. Albert Therriault of Lowell. Grossman accepted the award.

Malden Mills recently reduced its air pollution emissions from 900 tons per year to 118 tons per year, and 87 per cent reduction. The company employs approximately 1500 people.

The American Lung Association, with the Governor's help, also presented other 1977 Clean Air Awards at the ceremony. They went to the New England Telephone Company for its carpooling program, and to Lane Construction Corp. of Western Massachusetts, and Proctor and Gamble Manufacturing Co. of Quincy, for air pollution emissions reduction.

John C. Collins of Lawrence, former director of the state's Division of Environmental Health, Department of Public Health, served on the Clean Air Awards Selection Committee of the American Lung Association of Massachusetts.

It is open to all coaches, trainers and all others interested in the prevention and treatment of athletic injuries.

Migrating birds probably indicated land areas to early explorers. The flight of the golden plover between Bering Strait and South Pacific islands may have alerted the Tahitians to the existence of Hawaii. The Azores are named for hawks (acores) which the Portuguese probably followed west, Massachusetts Audubon tells us. The wheatear, a thrush that migrates between Europe and northern North America, may have been noticed by the Vikings.

Dr. John M. Markey, 246 Turnpike St. and Dr. Richard Garian, 643 Turnpike St., both of North Andover, have enrolled in a seminar on chiropractic management of athletic injuries and sports medicine in Boston. It is sponsored by the Massachusetts Chiropractic Society.

Conducted by the post-graduate division of National College of Chiropractic in Lombard, Ill., the course will be held on one weekend a month for three successive months. It will cover the latest methods of athletic injury management.

Stevens Library Receives Grant For Special Needs Collection

A grant of $2,000 has been awarded to the Stevens Memorial Library in North Andover, for the development of a collection of books, records, toys, games, and puzzles, both for use in the library and for borrowing.

It is expected that the new collection will be of particular use to special needs students although the materials will be also intended for use by all children. The collection will be actively promoted in Andover, North Andover, Lawrence, and Methuen.

The new materials will be added to an already existing collection of toys, records, and puzzles which have been classified, in cooperation with the special needs staff of the North Andover school system. The original collection was begun in 1975. Items were cataloged for specific skill development — eye-hand coordination, listening comprehension, etc. All the toys, games, and puzzles are suitable for any child, and the collection has proven popular with most children who can enjoy a variety of play experiences rather than be limited to a small range of purchased toys. Borrowing from the library is helpful to grandparents too, who have young visitors on weekends. The number of items available will soon total about 300.

The use of toys and puzzles are as much a part of any child's progress as are books and records. The library staff feels that along with the books that are available for loan to parents and children, other learning materials provide welcome relief from too much time spent in front of a television set.

A meeting with the staff of the North Andover Special Needs

Department was held April 14, and the collection was displayed and explained by Denise Johnson, children's librarian, and Ellen Spilka, director. Although not all the new materials are ready to circulate yet, a variety of learning materials are on hand and the entire collection will be available within the next month. The grant money was made available by the Massachusetts Bureau of Library Extension, and the funds are from the federally supported Library Services and Construction Act.

Dialogue On CBD Planned

An open meeting on the Central Business District will be held on Tuesday, May 3, 9 to 11:30, at the home of Susan Dennett, 68 Central St., Andover.

Planned by the Land Use Committee of the League of Women Voters of Andover, the morning will feature Douglas Howe, Sr. of the real estate and insurance firm; Philip Herr, planning consultant for the town of Andover; Robert Henderson, president of Andover Savings Bank, and John Webber of The Butler's Pantry.

The open discussion will focus on the issues of parking, the current mix of businesses, the appearance and possible improvements of the CBD, and growth of the CBD.

The Land Use Committee has been studying central business districts in an attempt to understand what makes them strong and able to withstand competition from shopping malls. A survey of merchants in Andover's CBD has given the committee insights into the problems of our CBD, as well as a feeling of the range of attitudes among the downtown merchants. The Newcomers Club, representing consumers with a fresh eye, also have been polled on their perceptions of Andover's CBD.

It is hoped that with this understanding of the strengths and weaknesses, real and potential, of Andover's central business district, a valuable dialogue will take place between invited guests, the committee, and others.

All League members and any interested townspeople are invited. Babysitting is available by calling Joyce Robinson, 50 Wildrose Drive.

To Receive High Honors For Ecology

A sixth grade student from Andover has earned highest honors in the fifth annual Elementary Education Ecology Poem and Poster Program sponsored by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

Chris Bachman, a pupil at the Doherty School, is one of 90 students from New England singled out for highest honors in the environmental education program.

In recognition of this accomplishment, Chris will receive a plaque from U.S. Senator Edward W. Brooke and EPA Regional Administrator John A.S. McGlennon at a ceremony to be held May 13 at 10 a.m. at the John F. Kennedy Federal Building.

Paul G. Keough, director of public affairs of the EPA and coordinator of the program explained that Chris can be quite proud of this achievement.

"This year, more than 3,500 elementary school teachers representing some 10,000 youngsters participated in the program. Our judging panel reviewed about 7,000 entries. To be selected as a plaque winner is truly a distinction," Mr. Keough added.

During January and February, teachers from the six-state region discussed environmental issues with their students. Each student prepared a poem or poster about ecology. The teachers then sent the two best entries from their class to EPA for review by a citizens' panel headed by Dr. Warren Little, director of education, New England Aquarium.

To make 2,000 pounds of containerboard takes 3,688 pounds of wood, 261 pounds of lime, 360 pounds of saltcake and 76 pounds of soda ash, Massachusetts Audubon states.

AVIS Canoe Race May 7

The Andover Village Improvement Society is sponsoring their seventh annual canoe and kayak race on Saturday, May 7 at the Shawsheen River Reservation. Follow Central Street to the Abbott (Horn) Bridge and enter between the river and the railroad overpass.

There will be races for all abilities and contestants may enter whichever race they choose. Kayaks will form a separate category in each event.

The Beginners Race, a downstream event, will commence at 10 a.m. at Ballardvale. Entrants for this race should gather at the Ballardvale site, off Dale St., just below the dam where registration will take place between 9:30 and 10 a.m.

The Intermediate Race will start at 11 a.m. at the Abbott Bridge for a roundtrip to a point halfway to Ballardvale. Registration will be prior to 11 at the starting point.

The Open Event begins at noon at the same place. This will be a round trip to Ballardvale with registration any time before noon.

Timing of the races is intended to permit each canoe to be available for all three races.

The Shawsheen River Reservation preserves 27 acres of rural land along the west bank of the river connecting with the Vale Reservation to provide a continuous stretch of public land from Central St. to Ballardvale. There is a trail along this side of the river which is popular for walking. Several bridges have recently been constructed along the way to facilitate crossing wet areas.

The canoe races have always been a popular family event as the banks of the river provide an ideal area for picnicking and watching the energetic participants. Later in the day many families follow the course at a slower pace for pleasure, winding down the seemingly remote river watching for the many birds and ducks which annually nest along the river's edge.

There will be trophies for each event including the fastest kayaks in the open race. For further information contact Bob James.

Entrance Age Policy On School Agenda

Entrance age policy for kindergartners, a perpetual discussion topic in education and parent circles, will be taken up by the school committee when it meets again Tuesday night at 7:30 p.m. in Stowe School.

The committee this week singled out several policy topics to review in coming months, and the age for entering kindergartners drew the first shot. Others to follow include the confidentiality of student records, budget preparations, permission for materials to appear in the schools from outside organizations, and administrative appointments.

The committee rejected Casimir Kolaski's suggestion that they review the entire policy manual from cover-to-cover, because of the time involved. Instead, Kolaski and Alan Doerr were named to a subcommittee to study all the other policies and report back the first meeting in June with possible revisions.

This year's program will include works by Bach, Liszt, Widor, and the first performance of a chorale-fantasia by the Philadelphia Composer, Richard Yardoumian.

Tickets can be purchased at the door before the performance.

states that a youngster must be five years old on or before Jan. 1 of the coming school year to enter in September, and Committee member Joseph Finn noted Tuesday night that a lot of states push that date back so a child must be five by the beginning of school or by Sept. 1.

He said he would like to discuss the policy, with particular input from the administrators.

Earlier, Finn suggested that the committee make a practice of an existing policy to meet with the Administrative Council each fall and spring.

The committee and administrative council — which consists of the central office, principals, assistant principals and program advisors when an agenda item concerns them — had met Monday night in a session Supt. Kenneth R. Seifert said indicated "a growing togetherness of the administration and school committee working on common problems and goals."

He said he didn't see any antagonism in the meeting, and that he had gotten extremely positive feedback from the administrators.

"They feel that if they had an idea they could throw it out on the table," he said. "It's an extremely significant for the town of Andover."

Chairman David Ahouse said present budget policy states that preparations begin with a zero base every year, but that the committee and administration had both violated that policy this year. He said he would like to see budgeting by programs.

Also on Tuesday's agenda will be review of a direction letter.

Andover A Metropolis To Carmen

AFS Family

Carmen Bokin, center, from the Marshall Islands, is a part of this Andover American Field Service family which includes Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kenney, seated and sons, Tom and Bill Kenney.

Carmen Bokin is this year's AFS student from the Pacific area. Her home is an island in the Marshalls, part of a trust territory administered by the United States. Her own account of AFS experience in a community vastly different from her home island follows.

By Carmen Bokin

I have learned very much from AFS. I think that it has a wonderful program for young people because it helps them understand more about people, different societies, and themselves. Since

I have come to the United States, I have realized that there is much more to the world than the Marshall Islands. Among the things I had never known before, I found out about New England weather. My country is a place where it never gets cold. It had not occurred to me that it would be really freezing, and I was amazed by the coldness of the winter. In the Marshalls we have only two seasons, winter and summer, but winter has no snow, of course. It rains instead and is a bit colder than summer, probably 85 degrees F. and never even in the 60's.

Secondly, I was surprised at how big Andover is. Since each one of the Marshall Islands is a small area, I did not imagine that the town of Andover could be very large. However it took me a long time to recognize all the places where new friends and my host family, the Kenneys, took me. In the first weeks every time that I went out sightseeing, people would ask me which way to return home but I could not tell them because there were too many roads to confuse me. The fact of living in a town with the number of houses and areas of Andover is the biggest part of my experience here. Andover may be small to out-of-town visitors will feature flowers and their country of origin.

Spring Flower Show

"The Magic Carpet" is the theme of the standard flower show to be presented by members of the Northern and Northeastern Districts of the Garden Club Federation of Massachusetts during the 63rd annual open house of the Essex Agricultural and Technical Institute on April 30 and May 1.

There will be five divisions that include artistic design, horticulture, small gardens, education and juniors, as well as many potted plants, bulbs, trees and flowering shrubs. In division III, "Gardens 'Round the World"

There will be something of interest for every member of the family at the horticultural show. Admission is free, and the show is open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

but compared to a Pacific island community on an atoll, it is huge.

Thirdly, I had to get used to living in a house with only the children and parents there. In the Marshall Islands the family often includes grandparents and aunts and uncles. In my own home, besides my parents, I have an aunt, a younger sister, and three younger brothers. Two older brothers have already graduated from college. Our wooden house with its metal roof contains three rooms and a separate cooking house. We do not have appliances since our island of Lae has electricity only in the elementary school. Household tasks are still done by hand.

Fourthly, high school in the Marshalls is located in Majuro, the capital, about 200 miles from my home. I had to leave my parents and live in a dormitory during my high school years. I saw my family only during the summer vacation in June and July. Our school with its 600 students is built in parts arranged in a circle; we move between buildings for different classes. The dormitory is very near the water so we can often go swimming and sailing. The water is bright blue and is surrounded by white coral sand. When we are in our school classes our subjects include general science, biology for two years, math and English every year, world history, U.S. history, Pacific Area studies, Micronesian culture, and English, which is our foreign language. We also study our own language, Marshallese, through composition and talks in class. Our textbooks are usually in English so we have to study with our Marshallese-English dictionary close by.

For fun we have sports like volleyball, basketball, and baseball. Boys and girls play separately. After school we often walk into town 10 minutes away to visit friends or go shopping, and for weekends we often have picnics and parties in the dormitory.

I have found American life much busier than that at home. People move more quickly and talk more loudly. They are less likely to have time to relax. The Marshallese are quieter in conversation but take time to say "hello" even in the stores.

When I return home, the first thing I shall do is stay with my parents whom I have not seen since July 1975 because I had to leave for the U.S. last year just when school ended. Later I want to go to the Community College of Micronesia on Ponape in the Carolines or to the University of Guam. I have not decided on a career, but Andover High School has shown me new possibilities to think about. Looking back on a year which is soon coming to an end, I have found the Andover AFS very helpful in introducing me to people in town, arranging my talks, and providing opportunities through trips and weekends elsewhere for further new experiences with American life. When I return home, I will certainly recommend that younger students in the Marshall Islands enter the program.

Recreation Road Route Not Encouraging

Recreation / Community School committee members made a pitch for restoration of funds to the budget and appealed for road improvements at Recreation Park to the selectmen Monday night in an effort which may have been in vain.

Their appeal was also based on a thought that if the budget cuts were not restored, could they proceed to defend their requests on the floor of town meeting, a matter which obviously did not get a sympathetic reception.

The committee, advisory in nature to the town manager, was emphatic in its desire for road improvement at Recreation park an item turned down by town meeting a year ago.

Chairman James Flynn of the committee, told the selectmen they had asked to discuss points of major disagreement in their budget requests as well as the road project.

He said the matter of the pre-school playground, ABEL project, and the Greater Lawrence Outreach program, all had suffered cuts in the review by the selectmen and finance committee.

Selectman Richard J. Bowen said the ABEL program was restored as of the moment by the board, but that the FinCom was still not firm. The difference is in the program formerly being part of the school department budget.

As for the pre-school program, Flynn said it has wide community support and does not detract from private services provided by pre-school programs in the town, nor does it effect baby sitting services provided by young people during the summer months.

He said it provides an adjustment and socialization experience for youngsters as well as a living and learning program.

Age of the participants dictates that it cannot be conducted within the regular summer playground program and that, if necessary fees could be charged to recoup some of the costs.

The roadway item caused the most concern, with Flynn explaining that the traffic flow at the park is abhorant and that correction is necessary. The road is a part of the master plan for the park and, Flynn said, the committee realizes that it is never a good time to spend money, but necessity dictates some action being taken this year.

Flynn said the committee feels it should proceed with this article in the warrant despite its having been turned down by the town manager.

Selectman Richard J. Bowen explained that it is a bad year and not a comforting one for the board to make some of the decision it has with regard to departmental budgets and requests.

He said the town has not had to make decisions similar to ones being made this year for a long time.

He added that a master plan does not necessarily dictate when work or specific projects should be done.

He agreed that the road improvement was necessary, but was not a high priority item in the estimation of either the manager or himself.

Committeeman Douglas Mitchell felt that some discussion was necessary as to the process of reviewing items and requests, noting the committee had thrashed out its decision to seek the roadway this year. He said that now that the manager had said no, "what are we going to do about it."

Chairman Susan Poore explained that all departments want to do the best they can budgetwise, but it is just impossible this year, in view of the total costs and the reduction in Cherry Sheet receipts from the state.

After Flynn asked if the committee could go ahead and ask for the project on the floor of town meeting, Bowen advised him that they should examine their relationship with the manager. "You are an advisory board to the manager and you will have to decide at what point does the process stop."

Bowen added that the group was an agency recognizing what it feels it needs, but that the agency must also look at the overall picture. "The reconciliation of your views has to be with the manager," Bowen advised on their suggestion of going to the floor of town meeting.

After some more discussion of proceeding to town meeting on their own, and the suggestion that the group was sounding board for what people want, Selectman Albert Cole, Jr., abruptly commented, "you people must be either awfully stubborn or awfully stupid. You have been told time and again the problems we are faced with in the tax rate and the budgets. You are taking the wrong attitude. Your budget is now sacred cow. All other departments have faced budget cuts and reductions in requests for special items."

Mitchell said this was the first opportunity the committee had to talk with the selectman about their requests and looked upon the matter as being one of "advocacy not being adamant."

Bowen again responded to the town meeting matter by stating that it had been tradition and practice over the years in Andover to accept the decisions of the manager on such matters. He said he could not recall in his 13 years in Andover an opposing view being presented by a department head. Bowen added that this recognized the fact that all persons have a right to be heard at town meeting.

Town Manager J. Maynard Austin said it was a very difficult decision rejecting the road improvement this year. The town is seeking funds for a road in the Sacred Heart fields, which the town must include in order to be eligible for some state and federal funding for proposed acquisition and development.

Austin added that he felt the committee should be provided the opportunity to appear before the selectmen because it is an advisory and citizens group, and had arranged for Monday's session.

Hawaiian Artist At Museum

A lifetime of practicing the arts of her ancestors has made Johanna Drew Cluney the foremost practitioner in Hawaii of the ancient craft of feather work. Now through May 6, the Peabody Museum of Salem will have an exhibit of Mrs. Cluney's exquisite work. Although the stunning birds whose feathers made the old capes and leis are now largely extinct, Mrs. Cluney still collects her own feathers, sometimes plucking the most beautiful two or three from a peacock's tail.

"These are my children," she says of her work. "It is from the divine source that my inspiration comes." From time to time she will demonstrate her art so that visitors may see the intricate work of knotting each feather into its place in the design. Call the museum to determine demonstration times.

Selectmen's Statement On Austin Contract

To the Citizens of Andover:

Over the past several weeks as individual selectmen, as a Board and as a Board with the Town Manager, we have been engaged in a serious and much-needed process of reflection, of looking at ourselves, as well as attending to a large number of other matters, especially those relating to the upcoming Town Meeting. We believe that the time spent has been worthwhile. The process will continue. In its course to date, we have reached several significant conclusions which we wish to share with the citizens of Andover at this time.

We accept fully our responsibility as the sole judges of the fitness of the town manager to continue in office, accountable always to the voters of Andover for our actions. It is the unanimous opinion of the Board of Selectmen that the term of the present Town Manager be extended as of September 2, 1977 for an additional two years in order to make his present term conform with the five-year term called for by the Town Charter.

*There are other essential and related actions which we have agreed will be undertaken within the next several months. These include:

*The development of a detailed job specification for the position of town manager.

*The development and implementation of a formal performance evaluation process for the town manager, including:

*Performance criteria
*Timing or scheduling of evaluations
*Provision for responses by the town manager

*Periodic follow-up by the board and town manager

*Delineation of the formal and working relationships between the board of selectmen and the town manager

*Definition of relationships within the board of selectmen expressed in terms of board organization, including rules of order and procedure and the establishment of goals and priorities

*Establishment and/or improvement of working relationships with other town agencies, especially boards and commissions appointed by the town manager and with the Finance Committee and the School Committee

*Defining the relationships of the board of selectmen with the citizens of the town expressed principally in terms of meaningful citizen involvement in the continuing and critically important tasks of identifying problems and finding solutions to them.

In some significant respects, we have already begun work on the realization of these objectives, believing as we do that in most of these areas, time is of the essence.

We have no illusions as to the size or the complexities of what we have set out to do. We recognize the emotions aroused by events of the recent past in the administration of the town, but we consider these events to be of historical interest principally. It is now time to get on with the business of the town.

With respect to the position of town manager, we cannot fail to comment on one of its aspects which is of great concern to us and we believe should be of concern to the townspeople. The Town Charter presently calls for the town manager's appointment to be for a term of five years. This requirement is not a typical one in communities operating under the so-called council-manager plan of municipal government. The vast majority of town or city charters or laws covering managers provide for an indefinite term of appointment contingent upon satisfactory performance and subject to termination in accordance with provisions written into the charter or law similar to those appearing in the Andover Town Charter.

The reappointment process in Andover, in our opinion, on the four occasions which have arisen since the adoption of the Town Charter in 1959 has been, at best, an unsettling experience for the selectmen, the town manager and the town as a whole. Although presumably meant to be a safeguard as part of a system of checks and balances, it instead has tended, at worst, to be divisive and unprofessional, serving no one's best interests.

It is our intention to examine this requirement from all points of view over the next three to six months and to seek the counsel of the townspeople on the matter. Should it seem to be a direction in which we should move, an amendment to the Town Charter would then become necessary through the home rule process spelled out in the General Laws of Massachusetts.

We, the Board of Selectmen and the Town Manager, are deeply committed to making our system of town government work, confident and assured that it is working now and will work in the future. However, we need and earnestly solicit the continuing help and understanding of all town employees, members of appointive and elective town agencies and especially those citizens of Andover who share not only our concern over the future of the town, but also our belief that by working together we can meet and surmount the exciting challenges facing use.

To Be Ordained Permanent Deacons

THE TOWNSMAN, APRIL 28, 1977

John Joseph Capomaccio, who is a member of St. Augustine's Parish in Andover, will be ordained to the Permanent Diaconate by His Eminence Cardinal Humberto Medeiros on Saturday, May 7, 1977 at 10 a.m. in the Holy Cross Cathedral, Boston.

Also to be ordained are Samuel B. Moschetto and Leonard B. Albis of North Andover.

John lives at 6 Clover Circle, Andover, with his wife Angela, and two daughters, Maria, 7 and Rosemarie, 3½.

Born in Somerville, Dec. 6, 1929 he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Angelo Capomaccio of Somerville. He attended St. Joseph's Grammar School in Somerville and graduated from Malden Catholic High School in 1947. From 1948 to 1953 he was a Trappist monk in Valley Falls, Rhode Island and in Spencer, Mass.

In 1953 he attended Salem State College and received his undergraduate degree in Education in 1957. In 1960 he received his graduate degree in Guidance and Counseling from Boston University.

John has been employed in the Saugus Public School System for the past 20 years — 14 as a junior high school guidance counselor and six years as a junior high school teacher. He is presently teaching grade 9 Anthropology and Ancient History.

John's ministry of service as a deacon will be among the people of St. Augustine's parish. He will be working with Rev. Edward G. Robinson, O.S.A., Pastor and his assistants, Rev. Michael DiGregorio, O.S.A., Rev. Richard Foley, O.S.A. and Rev. Jack Deery, O.S.A.

Samuel Moschetto was born in North Andover and attended St. Michael's School, graduated from Central Catholic and Merrimack College. As an Industrial Engineer, he is employed by Block Engineering Inc. of Cambridge. Mr. Moschetto and his wife Patricia are the parents of five children and live in North Andover.

Leonard B. Albis, 28 Holbrook Road, North Andover, entered the program in September 1973 and has been assigned to St. Rose of Lima Parish in Topsfield. Mr. Albis is married to the former Betty Duemling and the father of three children and is employed with the Arlington Trust Company where he manages their North Andover Branch. Mr. Albis was educated in Methuen schools and is active in many organizations in North Andover.

A deacon ranks third in the church's hierarchy of ordained ministry, following bishop and priest. He may preach the gospel, and intimately assist the priest in the celebration of Mass. In addition, he may celebrate the Sacrament of baptism, officiate at a wedding, preside at wakes and burials, and benediction of the Blessed Sacrament, distribute Holy Communion at Mass and to the sick in their homes, and administer sacramentals.

In the cathedral ceremony, the candidates will pledge themselves in a life of service to all people in God's name. They will take the vow of celibacy, which means, they will remain unmarried upon the death of their spouse. Some permanent deacons are unmarried at the time of ordination.

Pope Paul restored the permanent diaconate in 1967 in accord with recommendations made by the Second Vatican Council. Each candidate must have a proven record of service to the Church and Community before being accepted into the program, and have a strong desire to serve others in the name of Christ.

The candidate for the diaconate also has to be self-supporting. The extent of his ministry is determined by his primary obligation to care for his family.

Volunteers Are Backbone

It's no secret, says Richard Cate, former director, that the Andover-North Andover Y.M.C.A. has more volunteers than any other Y around.

Why last year alone, 553 volunteers gave more than 18,844 hours as instructors, supervisors and babysitters, or in the cage or locker rooms or front office.

Cate, who only recently retired, is now almost full-time in the campaign to raise $600,000 to pay off the mortgage on the new Haverhill Street building so the organization can run in the black every year.

But if it weren't for the volunteers, he says, membership fees would have to be substantially increased or the wealth of services severely cut back. And in the area of services, Cate says confidently that in the area of services, "no one can touch us." The Y, open seven days a week, offers a host of programs for ages three to 100, from arts and crafts to yoga, with gymnastics, Chinese cooking, vacation outings and dozens more in between.

The volunteer program has been Cate's pet lifetime project — he has used it throughout his career with YMCA's and brought it to Andover, which has become a living example for Y's all over the country in the volunteer field.

"Nobody can touch us in that department either," Cate says, though he adds that not everyone can do it because they're not willing to accept an underlying philosophy that has been here — that volunteers must be dues-paying members.

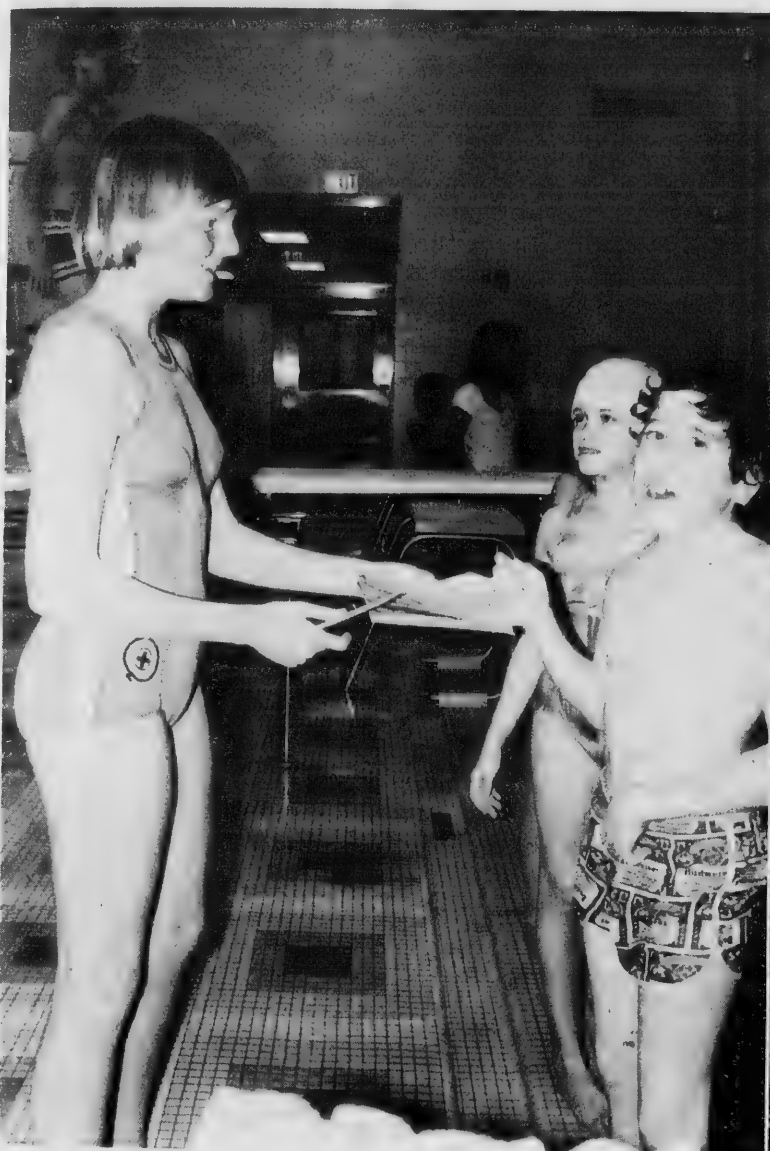

"We want our volunteers to be members like everyone else," he says. "This is a volunteer organization and for our members. We don't think it's any more strange for a man to teach a class in the gym or to work on this fund-raising campaign. Each is serving his or her own particular area of expertise."

on, "but it's been a way of life with us."

He adds that the volunteers are as dependable as the Y's handful of paid professionals — or more so. "There's tremendous loyalty," he says. "Once they accept a commitment, they stick to it."

The swimming program shows volunteerism at its best, Cate says, and the local Y has what is reputed to be the biggest aquatic program in the Northeast.

Every guard and every instructor is a volunteer, and there's someone on duty from 7 a.m. to 9:45 p.m. seven days a

A Way With Words

Andover's board of selectmen, new in composition and having survived the dust settling stage, began to give indications of a new look this week.

Whether by accident or design, they this week removed themselves from the pedestal from where the board once ruled and instead occupied their laminated forum setting at floor level.

Their actions with regard to the extension of the town manager's contract for another two years could have been anticipated, what with the election results and all.

But the most significant part of the evening came during the lengthy discussion concerning the recreation/community schools budget and request for funds for a roadway at Recreation Park.

After considerable give and take between selectmen and recreation/community school committee members about problems facing the town and the latter's desire to have a road, along with other budget provisions, Selectman Albert Cole looked at the committee members and said, "you people are either stubborn or stupid. You have been told time and again the problems we are faced with and that other department budgets have been cut. You're taking the wrong attitude. Your budget is no sacred cow."

Now for attention-getters a couple of words like stubborn and stupid tend to be lightning like.

Douglas Mitchell of the school group tended to soften the blow somewhat by indicating that he felt the committee's intent in presenting their case to the selectmen was more one of "advocacy not adamant."

It was obvious, however, that for simply getting to the point, Mr. Cole has a way with words.

Among the matters the committee wished to discuss with the selectmen was that of, having had their requests rejected by the manager, selectmen and finance committee, what would be their next step — in other words could they go to town meeting floor and fight for their issues on their own.

This probably was the inciting force for Mr. Cole's remarks, along with such commentary by one member that the committee saw its duty as getting feedback as to what Andover residents desired.

While every resident of Andover, and every member of appointed or elected boards is entitled to address town meeting with their views on articles, it just doesn't seem in the best interests of municipal life to fight against appointive authority.

As was explained to the committee Monday night, they are an advisory group to the town manager. Town Manager Austin himself said that it was unfortunate that he could not recommend the new roadway for Recreation Park this year, but other considerations had priority.

Austin also said that he had made arrangements for the committee to appear before the selectmen, the only group to do so during budget considerations, in view of their being advisory in nature and a citizens group.

We trust that the issue of whether the group would pursue the defense of their budget and other monetary requests to the floor of town meeting was resolved Monday night.

Recognizing the legal right of citizens to present their case in the open forum of town meeting, we also are cognizant of a moral obligation to follow the wisdom of the leadership of the community which has carefully examined the town's financial picture for the coming year.

Haven Play Deals With Multi-Generation Families

The Andover Haven and the The Family Service Association of Greater Lawrence are co-sponsoring an evening program at 7:30 on May 11 at the Haven, as one feature of the celebration of Senior Citizen month.

The Family Service will present a play by Nora Stirling, The Room Upstairs, illustrates some of the problems of old and young living together. The five characters present a series of incidents illustrating two opposing points of view — that of a family distressed by grandmother's upsetting little ways, and that of grandmother herself. At the conclusion of the play, which is about half an hour long, a discussion of topics raised in the play provides an opportunity for people to share their ideas and concerns and learn from one another and from the professional staff members from Family Service who will act as discussion leaders. The play and the discussion following it will be especially meaningful to "adult children" who are concerned about an aged parent whether they actually live in the same household.

The board and staff of Family Service are concerned about reaching families who are experiencing problems such as are seen in this play. Too often, agencies such as Family Service are not perceived as either available or interested in the problems of the aging. Yet as people living longer we are seeing not only three generation, but also come four generation families. The play directed by Patricia Anderson includes among the cast Lois Ann Whitney, Thelma Church, Martha Schmidt, Austin Anderson and Richard Cannon, all of Andover. Registration will be limited. Admission is free of charge. Reservations may be made by calling the Andover Haven or Family Service Association.

Senate Works to Curtail Debt Collectors' Plays

by Jack Anderson
with Joe Spear

WASHINGTON -- A New York man recently received an urgent call from a woman who said she was a nurse at a nearby hospital. She reported that his wife had been involved in a serious automobile accident. She said the hospital needed to know at once his hospitalization coverage, his employment, his salary.

The agitated man hurriedly supplied the information. Then he rushed over to the hospital -- only to discover that his wife wasn't there at all. He had been the victim of a cruel but common hoax. He had been tricked into supplying private financial information to an unscrupulous debt collection agency.

Such abuses have flourished among some agencies which collect financial information to an unscrupulous debt collection agency.

Such abuses have flourished among some agencies which collect an annual $4 billion in debts. They get away with it, because there is no federal law to restrict their unsavory practices.

Their harassment is often directed at the wrong people. Researchers have found that most of the abused debtors simply can't pay their bills because they've lost their jobs or suffered setbacks.

Some have already paid their bills. The collection agencies are merely behind in their paperwork. One elderly man, who was hounded over a $14 debt he didn't owe, dropped dead while yelling at the collector over the phone.

Collectors have posed as public officials, lawmen, attorneys and newsmen. Some have even pretended to be social workers as a ruse to get personal information from institutions. Others have represented themselves as department store clerks. Then they have called the debtor's bank to ask whether he has enough money in his account to cover a phony purchase.

One debt collector has boasted that he can collect a volume of personal information on anyone in the country in 24 hours.

But it is the individual harassment that is the most outrageous. Some people have received as many as 20 telephone calls an hour, even in the middle of the night. Other collectors try to cause trouble for the debtor by harassing his employer.

The Diners Club recently settled a federal lawsuit by agreeing not to harass delinquent clients in the future. And the Senate Consumer Affairs Subcommittee is trying to set strict standards for collection agencies. So there is hope for the maligned debtor.

Cuban Mission?: The State Dept. is quietly preparing to establish a diplomatic mission in Cuba. Of course, the plans are strictly preliminary. But some foreign service officers have already been interviewed for possible diplomatic positions in Havana.

The idea of re-establishing normal relations with Cuba is favored by most of the people around president Carter. But there are still those who oppose it.

They point out that Castro is holding an estimated 4,000 political prisoners in Cuban jails and that Castro owes the United States nearly $2 billion for property that was seized after the revolution.

But the strongest argument against normalizing relations with Cuba is Castro's global operations. The latest intelligence reports show that Cuba is supplying military assistance to 10 African nations and half-a-dozen other countries from South Yemen to Laos.

Hiding behind Castro's beard, of course, is Leonid Brezhnev. The Kremlin is aware that the Cubans are more acceptable to the Third World than are the heavy-handed Russians.

But there is no question about who is financing Castro's activities. In fact, intelligence reports claim that the Soviets are now shelling out close to $4 million a day to keep Castro solvent.

Globetrotting Chairman: The Consumer Product Safety Commission is supposed to protect the public against dangerous products. This can best be accomplished, it would seem, here at home. But Chairman John Byington has felt the urge to promote product safety in exotic, faraway places.

In the 10 months since Byington was appointed chairman, he has managed to visit almost as many foreign countries as Henry Kissinger. Byington has made flying trips at the taxpayers' expense to Hong Kong, Taiwan and Tokyo; to Bonn, Brussels and Hamburg; and to the sun-kissed Virgin Islands.

He told us that he has been explaining U.S. standards to foreign companies.

Meanwhile, the globetrotting chairman is preparing to visit Europe again this summer. The CPSC has been so busy arranging his travels, apparently, that it hasn't had time to take action against hazardous heaters, extension cords and other dangerous products.

Deficient Diet: Several international corporations have moved into the baby-feeding business in underdeveloped countries. But the babies, I've learned, are doing poorly.

In the past, these babies have been nourished by their mothers. But several international food manufacturers have conducted an advertising campaign to boost bottle feeding. Many mothers have been persuaded by the advertising to put their babies on bottles.

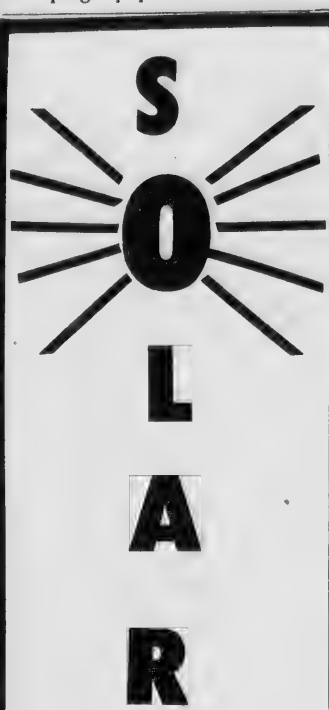

Unfortunately, the water is impure and the baby formula is expensive in poorer countries. The result has been that the babies are getting less nourishment than if they had stuck to mother's milk.

But the big food manufacturers are happy; their profits have shot up.

week. Not five cents is budgeted for salaries for pool staff.

This Y has more certified instructors than any other, Cate goes on, with more than 1400 pupils of all ages enrolled in actual courses.

Furthermore, Cate boasts, the local Y's standards for instructors are much higher than those required for certification on the national or state level.

There are some paid teachers in other areas — one in golf, a couple in ballet and the like. The Y also hires Merrimack college students to work the office in the afternoons. Earlier in the day, however, it's volunteers.

The Y presents an award to the "Volunteer of the Year," and in 1976, the winner was Retiree Robert Wright, who oversees the plant operations and maintenance.

The top volunteer for several years running was Elaine Kent, who donated more than 20,000 hours over a seven-year period before being added to the professional Y staff. She became assistant director under Cate and upon his retirement, was named director.

Another former Volunteer of the Year, Bevolyn Oliver, was added to the professional staff this year, though Cate is quick to add that not every dedicated volunteer can expect a spot on the limited paid staff.

By and large, he says, the Y scene is volunteer.

Museum Acquires Instruments

The Museum of Fine Arts has acquired the Edwin M. The Ripin Collection is of special interest in Boston, a city which has many builders, performers, and restorers of keyboard instruments; and it is of particular importance to the Boston Museum's collection, which has only two major keyboard instruments.

Edward M. Ripin (1930-1975), one of the world's leading authorities on the history of early keyboard instruments, collected instruments of outstanding quality.

Spring Wildflowers

Late spring and early summer bring the majority of our native flowering plants into bloom. Massachusetts Audubon's Ipswich River Wildlife Sanctuary is offering a four session course on wildflowers. This course will emphasize the individuality of each species through careful examination and the use of field guides. Topics to be covered include: flower structure, families, habitats and pollination techniques. The instructor of the course is Libby Darlington of the Hatheway Institute of Environmental Education and will meet on Tuesdays May 10 and 17 and June 7 and 14 from 9:30-11 a.m. at the Wenham Nature Center on Cherry Street in Wenham. Advance registration is necessary. For a descriptive flyer on the course or more information call or write the Sanctuary office.

Massachusetts has the oldest state Constitution, adopted in 1780.

Swim meets are held in New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Maine area every 2-3 weeks. There is a short course (yards) and a long course (meters) national meet every year. There are no minimum times for any meet, even the nationals, and meets are also social events, most of them having sandwiches and snacks together after competition.

More Than Just A Coach

ou can't be hot or cold or give excuses. It's important for the boys to know you'll be there," says Miller Day "Jim" Malcolm as he describes his role as coach of the Cambridge YMCA swimming team. And he should know better than most people.

Malcolm, 45, has been a volunteer at the Y for 23 years, 18 as coach of the swim team. He is also a Director of the Y and chairman of its Youth and Camping Committee. For all those years of service, Jim Malcolm, an architectural coordinator for the MBTA, is now getting what he deserves.

He has been named an Outstanding Volunteer by the Cambridge YMCA, a United Way member agency, as part of National Volunteer Week, April 24 to 30, sponsored by the National Center for Voluntary Action in Washington, D.C.

An admirable achievement: 23 years — more than half his lifetime — of voluntary service. How did he begin? And what keeps him going?

As a Harvard junior, Malcolm studied child psychology which fascinated him, so much so that he nearly switched majors, from architecture to psychology. Later, as a student at the Harvard School of Design, he took boys to the Y as part of the community services offered by the Philip Brooks House at Harvard. Soon the Y asked him to teach swimming, and he agreed. Twenty-three years later, his enthusiasm is still strong.

Malcolm sees his service simply as a second career. And from the time he spends at it, no one can argue with that. He is with the team 15-20 hours a week, and right now — during the championship meets — he coaches every night and on the weekends. He even goes to the Y in the worst weather, because, as he says, "I know someone will be there waiting for me."

An Indiana native and a resident of Andover, Malcolm is well qualified to coach swimming. He was a prep school All American at Phillips Academy in Andover and later swam for the Harvard Crimson. He is also a member of the American Swimming Coaches Association.

He started the Y team in 1959 with just 12 boys; now he has 35. (At one point, he had 60, but the increase of hockey teams in the area has taken some boys away.)

The boys travel all over New England, competing in meets and championships. Recently they captured the YMCA District title, beating 24 other teams. The team has also been accepted into the New England Amateur Athletic Union, a testimony to Malcolm's leadership and ability as a coach.

"It's great for the boys," he says. "Not only do they get a chance to compete, but they meet other boys and see different parts of New England."

Much of his pleasure at the Y comes from coaching his own son, Scott, 12, who has won individual titles in swimming and diving in several YMCA meets. "Volunteering like this," says Malcolm proudly, "is one way I can spend hours with my son. And believe me, I treasure those hours."

Malcolm, however, doesn't push his son or the other boys to lofty heights like the Olympics. "I let them set their own goals," he says. "The personal satisfaction for me is in guiding them in the right direction, and helping them to go on to college, if I can."

His efforts have extended beyond the walls of the Y. Before Scott was born, he and his wife, Beverly, used to invite six different boys every week to their house for dinner. Even today, he takes some of them camping and hiking. "They're like brothers to Scott, and in a way, they're like a family to me," he says.

As if volunteering at the Y isn't enough, Malcolm is also an active member of the Cambridge Rotary Club, serving on its Community Service Committee of Cambridge. Professionally, he is a member of two more committees, one for the Massachusetts Association of Architects and one for the Boston Society of Architects.

But he doesn't stop there. He is also a member of the Committee of Management for Camping Services of the Greater Lawrence YMCA and is a former director of the Cambridge Camping Society.

His wife, Beverly, (herself busy as a learning disabilities teacher in Lynnfield and a student for a master's degree) keeps asking him what he's going to volunteer for next. But she doesn't mind at all. "She's my number one rooter," says Malcolm.

Perhaps, but the Cambridge YMCA and 35 boys on its swim team are a close — very close — second.

Soccer Teams Wade Through 2-2-1 Record

By Marc D. Koolen

Rain put a damper on much of the soccer activity this weekend, however five teams were still able to compete. When they hit the locker room the Andover teams had compiled a soggy 2-2-1 weekend record. The four postponed games will be played later this week, including the under 19 team Thursday at 6 p.m. on the Sacred Heart field.

Bob Carrick's under 14 team opened the action by outscoring their Merrimac opponents 4-1. The players exhibited excellent teamwork and a real scoring punch as all four goals came from different members of the forward line.

Senior Tryouts Begin

The Andover Senior League will hold registration and tryouts this Saturday and Sunday and again next weekend at the Andover High School field at 1 p.m.

The Senior League is an extension of Little League Baseball and provides a continuing baseball activity for youths 13 through 15 years of age.

The League is open to all youths who will not reach their 16th birthday before Aug. 1, 1977.

There are six teams in two divisions, American and National Leagues, each team playing a schedule of 15 games during a five-week period, May 31 through July 1. Town championship playoffs are conducted July 4, 5 and 7.

Each team has a roster of 15 players with a limit of no more than six in each age group.

Registration forms may be obtained at the Andover Hockey Shop and at Central Fire Station. The forms must be signed by parents, and, for new candidates, must be accompanied by a photostat of a birth certificate. A registration fee of $20 to defray costs will be required.

Tryouts schedules provides for 13-year-olds to report to the high school field Saturday and Sunday between 1 and 2:30 and 14 and 15 year olds between 2:30 and 4 p.m.

Career Day At College

Andover Junior College in Andover, is sponsoring a Careers in Business Day on May 4, from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m. High school juniors and seniors, guidance counselors, and business education teachers from all over the state have been invited.

The keynote speaker is Ordway Burden, National Director of the Justices of the Peace. Workshops and demonstrations of business equipment will be featured in the areas of Secretarial Science and Business Management.

Andover Junior College is a career oriented college of business offering Associate in Applied Science Degree programs in Business Management, Accounting, and Secretarial Science, and certificate programs in Office Assistant and Bookkeeping. AJC plans to open two new extension campus in Boston and Lynn on May 22, 1977.

Right wing Jamie Lebowitz and brother Howie at left inside each tallied one, as inside right Mike Franz and left wing Dan Roberts contributed the remaining two. Coach Carrick commended his entire team for a game well played, especially under such adverse weather conditions. He felt that, along with the fine offensive play of the front line, strong defensive efforts were offered by fullback Kevin Wilson and goalie Eric Fredette. Captain Dan Donovan anchored the team from his center halfback spot as he displayed exceptional skills offensively and defensively. The team's next game will be this Saturday at Georgetown.

The "Gazels," a new under 14 team, played their first game Saturday after virtually no practice, and lost to a tough Peabody team 1-0. Coach Bill Stevens noted that for the first ten minutes Andover dominated play, but eventually the more experienced Peabody team took control and outlasted the hometown group for the win. Coach Stevens praised his players, many of whom found themselves in unfamiliar field positions, for displaying such fine spirit and determination. Fullback Craig Lebowitz and his partner Tom Healy were busy most of the day from their new defensive assignments as they attempted to protect goalie Brian Butler, who also turned in a strong performance. Rain and cold slowed the attempts of halfbacks Doug Price, Chris Bedell and Dave Sherman, as they found it difficult to maintain any offensive threat. The "Gazels" go against one of the other two Andover under 14 teams at Sacred Heart Field next Saturday in what should prove to be an exciting hometown match.

Only one game was played in the under 12 division as Dick Valle's "Strikers" boosted their record to 2-0 by defeating a much larger Lawrence team 5-2. Andover struck first as right wing Scott West found left wing Bob French open for the score. Lawrence found the spot to tie it up, but Andover came right back to take a 2-1 halftime lead as center forward Chris Coops beat the Lawrence goalie on a nicely placed shot. The second half was all Andover as they scored three times. Chris Egen assisted Scott West for the winner shortly after the opening whistle. The two reversed roles for the fourth goal as West was able to help Egen hit the nets. The final Andover tally came on a breakaway by John Young who intercepted a defensive clear and took it in himself. Lawrence was only able to answer one more time as the outstanding defensive play by the fullbacks thwarted further Lawrence attempts. Coach Valle was again pleased with his team's efforts and noted that each member played at least two different positions during the game. The season looks bright for the "Strikers" as they are off to an impressive start.

Coach Bill Tarbox's under 10 team also travelled to Lawrence and, as last week, battled to a 1-1 deadlock with the opposition. The Andover team dominated most of the game, but slippery turf made it difficult to find the goal. Lawrence scored in the first half on a breakaway that put goalie Peter MacDonald in a difficult position. Andover came back in the second half as left inside Barry Tucker took the ball from the corner of the field, dribbled across the penalty area, and found right inside Ted McEnroe open 15 feet out for the score. Coach Tarbox praised goalies MacDonald and Craig Sorrie for turning in fine games. Halfback Christina DellaCroe, the team's only female, also looked good as she dazzled the opposition with skillful footwork. The team's next game will be Saturday at 4 p.m. against Swampscott on the Sacred Heart Field.

Andover's new team in the under 10 division faced a powerful Marblehead team in the pouring rain, after only one practice, and were turned away by a 5-0 score. Marblehead took a quick 3-0 lead, but found scoring difficult after that, as the Andover defense dug in and held them back. Goalie Tony Barrett gained valuable experience in the nets as he played with keen determination against constant offensive pressure from a well coordinated Marblehead attack. Coach Alan Thoday commended his entire group for the undying enthusiasm and sportsmanship they displayed all afternoon. "They've been bloodied in battle," commented Thoday, "now we'll learn some additional skills and positioning and come back strong!" The team has a great deal of potential as good performances were turned in by Brian Cronin, Mark Neaves, and Chris Graff defensively and Glen Livermore and Karl McCabe offensively. Coach Thoday expressed strong optimism for the next game as he and the players are both prepared to turn their record around.

AHS Swimmers Close Season

The AHS Boys Swim Team closed out its season with dual meets against Greater Lawrence Regional and the Lawrence Boys Club. Andover captured firsts in all events but one at the Voke Pool and came out winning the meet 8667.

The 200 medley relay team of Derek Bates, Court Cronin, Sean Dowd, and Kevin Hannawalt took the event in 1:57.5. Tri-captain Len Taten took a first in 200 yd. freestyle in 2:15.4 and a third in the 100 yd. free. Will Wright took firsts in the 200 IM with a time of 2:34.2, and the 100 yd. breaststroke in 1:14.1. Tri-captains Doug Greenlee and Court Cronin took 1-2 in the 50 yd. freestyle. Doug swam a 26.8 and Court did 27.1. Sean Dowd set a blistering pace in the 100 yd. butterfly taking the event in the record time of 59.0. Derek Bates took the 100 yd. freestyle with a fast time of 56.2. Doug Greenlee coming off his win in the 50 free took the 500 yd. freestyle in 6:27.2.

Andover's only loss of the day came in the 100 yd. back when Kolifrath from the Voke nosed out Kevin Hannawalt at the finish. However Kevin posted his best time of 1:13.2 for that event. Andover's last win of the day came in the 400 yd. free relay with Bates, Taten, Cronin, and Dowd taking the event in 3:54.3. Other contributors to Andover's win were Eric Carlson who placed second in the 200 free and third in the 500 free. Jerry Doyle who placed in the 50 free, 100 free and 100 breast, and Chris Cronin who placed second in the 100 fly and fourth in the 100 breast.

Andover's other meet with the Lawrence Boys Club wasn't quite as successful. The Boys Club won 44-33. However, even though it was a losing effort, there were some outstanding performances, particularly from Sean Dowd. He personally set three Boys Club age group records. One was in the 200 individual medley with a time of 2:13.2. The other wins were the 100 yd. butterfly in 1:01.6, and the 100 yd. freestyle in 53.8. Sean will later be competing in the YMCA National Championships in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.

East Jr. High Tourney Winner

The Andover East Junior High Gymnastics team closed out its season this past week against their future teammates from Andover West Junior High. The meet turned out to be a great success for Andover East, and for Andover itself, as both teams presented excellent performances on each of the six events.

Donald D. Dunn, former athletic director of Andover and a gymnastic judge for years, presided as head judge.

The outstanding performer of the meet was Billy Hart of East. He dominated and finished first in three events; the horizontal bar, parallel bars and still rings. J.M. Brideau, of East, captured first place in two events with an excellent performance in the floor exercise events and the vaulting. The final first place was won by Gregg Richmond, of East, who's fluid movements and continuous swing won the pommel horse event.

Sizer Receives Letter

Theodore Sizer II, a sophomore at Amherst College, recently received his varsity "A" for his performance on the Amherst College squash team.

Coach Ed Serues said, "Tod was the only sophomore to make the squad, and compiled a 70 percent win record. He is a strong, powerful shotmaker who will move up the ladder substantially next year as he gains more experience."

Although the squash team finished with a 7-9 overall record, there was significant improvement over last season and there is hope that the team will resume winning ways next year.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore R. Sizer, 189 Main St., Andover, Sizer is a 1975 graduate of Phillips Academy.

Two Graduate From Essex Ag-Tech

Kurt L. Kefferstan, daughter of Mrs. Gertrude Kefferstan, 7 Arundel St., and Stephen K. Efinger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl G. Efinger, 5 Iceland Road, received diplomas recently from the Essex Agricultural High School in Hathorne.

Graduation is held early so the students can begin the supervised practice phase of their educational program with cooperating employers.

Kefferstan majored in ornamental horticulture and natural resources at Essex, and this past November received the regional proficiency award for the Eastern states at the National FFA convention in Kansas City. He has been active in the FFA student chapter as a member of the agricultural mechanics and poultry judging teams.

He has been employed for the past three summers at the Andover County Club and recently started his own landscaping business.

Efinger majored in forestry and natural resources and plans to continue study at the University of Massachusetts. He was active in school affairs serving as vice-president of the senior class, a member of the public speaking team, the agricultural mechanics and poultry judging teams, and a competitor at the Eastern States Exposition and national FFA convention in Kansas City. He has spent summers working on agricultural business farms in Canada and N. H.

School Bus Rules

Acting Registrar of Motor Vehicles E. Theodore Gunaris reminds drivers that they must bring their vehicles to a full stop when approaching a school bus which has signal lamps flashing no matter in which direction they are traveling.

They must remain stopped and shall not proceed until the warning signals are deactivated. The only exception to this law is when approaching the stopped school bus from the opposite side of a divided highway.

The average American in a lifetime of 68 years eats the equivalent of 33 hogs, 10 lambs, eight steers and four calves.

African Violet Show Planned For Saturday

The Merrimack Valley African Violet Club presents its tenth annual African violet show "Pretty As A Picture" on Saturday, May 7, from 1-5 p.m. in the Grace Episcopal Church parish hall, Garden Street, Lawrence. It is open to the public at no charge.

A Beginner's Workshop will be conducted from 3-3:30 p.m. In addition, an educational exhibit will demonstrate important aspects of plant growth and care. Many varieties of African violets not usually available through local outlets will be at the plant sale table along with pots and specially formulated soil and fertilizer.

The local club is an affiliate of the African Violet Society of America, Inc. with headquarters in Knoxville, Tenn. For the past six years the club has received the highest show award of the Society, the Green Rosette, given for overall excellence of the show including staging, lighting, number of plants submitted per member, and condition of the plants.

Plants are awarded ribbons based on their individual attainment of perfection. AVSA judges, nine of whom will judge this show, score each plant on symmetry, leaf condition, quality and quantity of blooms, and plant cleanliness.

The Horticulture Division of the show will have seven sections displaying individual specimen African violets. Of special note is the Non-Members Entries section for African violets and gesneriads which can be entered by calling Mrs. Olie Lech in Westford. The Design Division will be devoted to artistic plantings and cut blossom arrangements interpreting themes suggested by the paintings of famous artists.

Discovered in the Usambara Mountains of East Africa in 1892 and sent to Germany, African violets were first sold in the United States in 1927. The original ten selections have been developed into the countless varieties available today. Their long-blooming qualities, handsome blossoms in a wide range of colors and combinations from white through pinks to purples, ease of propagation, and adaptability to home growing conditions have made them the most popular houseplant in the world.

Camera Club Sets Schedule For May

The Lawrence Camera Club's final full month of meetings for the current season begins on Thursday, May 5, 7:30 p.m., at the lower level Community Room, Bay State National Bank, 84 Main Street, Andover, with the Nature Group in session. A Photographic Society of America, Nature Division Instruction Slide Program will be shown, as well as comments being made on slides of animals brought in by members. The evening will conclude with a flower shooting session.

Thursday, May 12, Arnold J. Kaplan, APSA, of Quincy, will present the feature program of the month, "The Art of Seeing", a "Photo-Educational" lecture, illustrated with color slides, presented with two projectors, automatic tape control dissolve and sound. This program covers most of the things you should be thinking of when you are looking through your camera's viewfinder. Kaplan is a member of the Photographic Society of America, and was awarded their Associate honor (APSA) in 1974. He is a Star Exhibitor in both color slides and black and white prints in international photographic salons and exhibitions.

On Thursday, May 19, the club moves to the Lawrence Public Library Auditorium for a Three Screen — Three Team Competition, with Barbara Laatsch, Windham, N. H.; Josephine DiMauro, North Andover and Richard B. Kimball, North Andover serving as Team Captains. The 24 categories of color slides will be judged by Henry F. Weisenburger, APSA, MNEC, of Cochrane. "Best NECCC Prints 1975-1976" are scheduled to be shown also. The public is invited to attend.

The monthly print and slide competition will be held at the Bank, Thursday, May 26, with Muriel V. Williams, MNEC, of Lexington, as the judge.

Ticks May Be Thicker Than Usual

By Wayne Hanley

It's nice to have something toward which one can feel neutral.

In my case it's ticks. The common ordinary wood tick. The kind that gets on your dog and my dog.

Show For Women At Salem State

A two-woman show entitled WE-TOO is being sponsored by the Women's Centers at Salem State College and North Shore Community College and by the North Shore Women's School.

The production will be held in the College Union at Salem State College Monday, at 8 p.m. The performance is free and open to the public.

WE-TOO stars Ethel Michelson and Barbara Michelotti, professional Boston actresses, who have put together a production that presents a perspective on the Woman's condition through selected scenes and monologues from plays and novels. The material ranges from the sublimely farcical to the poignantly moving and includes scenes from Wilhelm Tell, Les Femmes de Alceste, and Feiffer.

After the performance, the actresses will discuss the evolution of the show and their perceptions of the connections between their personal lives and their careers.

Ethel Michelson has appeared in plays in Arizona, Colorado, and New York. She is currently appearing in the Boston Arts Group production of HOT L BATIMORE. Barbara Michelotti has studied and performed in Cambridge and in Boston. She is presently directing Chamber Music, a play about women.

Information on other women's week activities at Salem State is available from the Women's Center at the College. Information on women's school programs is available by calling Susan Clarke of Andover or writing the North Shore Women's School, 5 Cedar Hill Rd., Salem. Other programs of the Women's School include a women and spirituality lecture; on adventure weekend; a Tarot workshop, and a carpentry lecture demonstration series.

And sometimes on you and on me. I'm not even going to bother with the scientific name of the critter. In New England, we are blessed with but one outdoor tick that really makes it in the big time.

My favorite tick forecaster, Dr. William D. McEnroe, the tick specialist attached to the University of Massachusetts Suburban Experiment Station in Waltham, has made his annual forecast. It arrived just as my secretary was complaining that she had pulled a tick off her dog and that it was far too early for such foolishness.

Dr. McEnroe has no more intention telling you how many ticks you will pull off your dog this season than your favorite weather forecaster intends to forecast the number of drops in the next rainfall. The general substance of the forecast, however, is that there will be plenty of ticks to go around.

"It will not be a heavy infestation of ticks," Dr. McEnroe reports. "But, inland one should find more ticks than in any year since 1972."

So, if you can remember 1972, you have something to go on. Maybe your dog remembers the year.

Since we remember the receding winter as a harsh one that almost got us, we asked the good doctor how come ticks made out well.

"It's the snow cover," Dr. McEnroe said. "Most unusual. The Cape, for instance, had a continuous snow cover from Dec. 22 to Feb. 22. The snow blanket protects ticks from weather extremes."

Unfortunately, Dr. McEnroe insists upon making his forecast into an almost neighborhood by neighborhood affair, the sort of details that cannot be captured within the limited space of this column. His forecast applies only to Massachusetts, however Rhode Island and Connecticut

Inspection

Motor Vehicle inspection is now under way. Present your motor vehicle or trailer for inspection at the nearest inspection station as soon as possible. Do not wait until the last day, May 15, because you will encounter long waiting lines, says the Registry of Motor Vehicles.

readers should find it helpful. He does not forecast for that part of New Hampshire that does or does not have ticks (depending upon whether one speaks to the local tourist official or a summer visitor). Of course, if the Islands go to New Hampshire, he will have made a New Hampshire forecast inadvertently.

Dr. McEnroe advises: Use tweezers when removing a tick from dog or child, try to avoid bursting the little beast, wash off any blood from a popped tick, even if it is your blood. Do not remove ticks from anything if you have open cuts on your tick-removing hand. The precautions, of course, are to prevent your getting Rocky Mountain spotted fever, a most unlikely thing but something to guard against.

During the tick season, from late April to August, inspect the dog and the kids daily. The height of the New England tick season is early June. Avoid walking in uncut grass along the roadsides. They are prime tick country.

tion (Alan F. French). Monday night, Chairman Susan Poore, who voted with the majority last January, read a statement from the board stating that it was the unanimous opinion of the board that the term of "the present town manager be extended as of Sept. 2 1977 for an additional two years in order to make his present term conform with the five year term called for by the Town Charter."

The statement also revealed that the board and the manager had discussed the matter in some detail and that other "essential and related actions will be undertaken within the next several months" to include establishment of job specifications for the manager, development of an evaluation process, development of relationships within the board of selectmen and with the manager, other town agencies and the citizens of the town.

Noting that the term of the manager as contained in the charter, has always had an "unsettling" effect on the town when subject to action, the board said this portion of the charter would be subject to review.

Andover's first two managers did not go beyond their five year terms. The first manager, Thomas E. Duff failed to win contract renewal and Richard J. Bowen did not seek reappointment.

Both new selectmen Albert Cole, Jr., and Edward M. Harris had campaigned on retention of Austin as manager.

Director

was a good time to look at it and make some evaluation.

Supt. of Schools Kenneth R. Seifert will again serve on the committee seeking the successor to Ralph.

In his letter of resignation, Ralph expresses appreciation to the manager and the town for his experiences here.

His letter:

"The past five years have been challenging, enriching years in my life. My family and I feel a great sense of loss in our decision to depart from Andover. You, as Town Manager, members of the Recreation/Community Schools Committee, and the community as a whole have been most supportive and encouraging in my efforts to implement a unique municipal concept. The professional integrity of the municipal/educational systems combined with the open friendliness of the Andover people to me and my family made this decision most difficult. However, it is time for me to seek new challenges. Such an opportunity is available in my (and my wife's) native locale.

"Andover is a special community with a rich history and a diversified, complex population. I have always been impressed with the intelligent, professional approach in its decision-making process. With open communication and a continued emphasis on the sharing of ideas, Andover will remain a healthy, vibrant community. My family and I wish you and others in the leadership positions best wishes for successful implementation of their goals."

Kolaski was the lone vote against the school calendar, favoring instead the entire February vacation week.

Ahouse had said he thought the most recent April vacation week was almost "silly," and that the youngsters were getting "out of the rhythm of going to school."

Every month next year, he said, there's at least one three-day weekend. "There's also a strong sentiment educationally not to go to the end of June," he said.

Elaine Viehmann agreed that "the earlier the ending day the better."

Christmas vacation next year will be one full week, beginning after school Friday, Dec. 23. Pupils will return Monday, Jan. 2. Spring vacation will be April 17 to 21.

Schools will also not be in session Columbus Day (Oct. 10), Veterans' Day (Nov. 11), Martin Luther King Day (Jan. 16), two in-service days (Feb. 1 and March 8), Good Friday (March 24) and Memorial Day (May 29).

Record Sales At Raytheon

Raytheon Company today reported record first quarter sales and earnings. Earnings per share rose 27% to $1.50 from $1.18 a year ago.

In the quarter ended April 3, 1977, Raytheon's net income was $23,038,000, an increase of 29 percent over the $17,900,000 reported last year. Sales increased 16 percent to $661,596,000 from $572,416,000 a year ago.

Per share earnings are based on the average number of shares outstanding, which for the first be due Nov. 15.

The Men (And Woman) In The Band

The school committee Tuesday night took note of an invitation to march in the town's Memorial Day Parade May 30.

It's a tradition, Committeeman Elaine Viehmann noted, for the board to march in front of the high school band.

"It makes a nice background," she said.

quarter amounted to 15,363,051 in 1977 and 15,219,148 in 1976.

The record results were credited to strong operating performances in both the government systems and commercial electronics sectors of the business, to gether iwth increased investment income. The company reported that quarter-to-quarter comparisons were also helped by the fact that the first quarter accounting period this year was four working days longer than last year.

Raytheon's backlog of orders rose to a record $3.6 billion at the end of the first quarter. A year ago the backlog was $2.4 billion.
